

Story Telling Resources

There are a lot of ways to tell a story:

- Video interview
- Print & Photo
- Static Photos
- Photos-Video display

All are powerful and we encourage everyone to tell their story through one or more ways listed here. Each personal story combines to create the larger picture of what is happening at the student level. Test scores show trends, but parents can show reality. What is happening to you?

Whether you homeschool, public school or private school your kids, each story is relevant. Each student at a private school or home school is one more dyslexic student our society can ignore because you don't show up in statistics. Let's make our kids real – tell your story.
